

PRESIDENT LOST ANOTHER BATTLE IN SENATE VOTE

Wage Provisions of His Relief Bill Changed Despite Protests

BULLETIN

Washington, Feb. 22.—(AP)—On motion of administration leaders, the senate today returned the $4,000,000,000 relief bill to its appropriations committee.

Action was taken on the motion of Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, who explained the $4,000,000,000 direct relief money would be returned in a separate bill.

This would leave in committee the controversial $4,000,000,000 work relief program to which the senate attached 44 to 43, a prevailing wage requirement, opposed by President Roosevelt.

The action was taken without a record vote.

After reporting a separate $880,000,000 bill, administration forces hope to work out a way to block ultimate approval by congress of the McCarran prevailing wage amendment so vigorously opposed by Roosevelt.

Washington, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Striving to recoup a defeat in the senate, Roosevelt leaders looked hopefully to the House today to block ultimate adoption of the McCarran prevailing wage amendment to the $3,880,000,000 relief bill.

Not even a warning by Senator Glass of Virginia that a veto impended, nor a letter from Roosevelt asserting the bill would be administered to protect existing wage levels could swing the tide against the amendment as the Senate approved it late yesterday by 44 to 43.

The climax of the wages fight found Senator Long (D. La.) dealing a blow to the Roosevelt plans he criticized. After striding around the chamber all day, D. Long, conversing with Senators and seeking to marshal strength in favor of the McCarran amendment, he played a leading hand in a quick switch of "pairs." Some Senators attributed the administration defeat to his efforts.

Played Trump Card

His trump card was the authority which he said he obtained to pair the vote of Senator Hattie Caraway of Arkansas.

A pair occurs when an absent Senator offsets his vote against the vote of another Senator on the opposing side of the question. They were that their votes shall not be counted in the total. Senator Dickinson (R. Ia.), in favor of the amendment, originally was paired with Senator Barkley (D. Ky.), opposed.

The Iowa senator then transferred his pair to Senator Frazier (R. N. D.).

Frazier later appeared to vote "aye" and so Dickinson's pair was shifted to the absent Mrs. Caraway. Dickinson voted for the McCarran amendment and it went over the top by a single ballot.

Senator Robinson, Democratic leader who is Mrs. Caraway's colleague from Arkansas, questioned the transfer but Long triumphantly announced that the required authority had been granted.

House May Save Bill

As the Senate turned to half a dozen other controversial amendments, House leaders expressed the belief today that the wage provision could be eliminated, leaving the administration free to pay "security wages" of about $50 a month on public works.

The McCarran proposal is to pay the rates prevailing in private industry.

It was evident the leaders felt it could be eliminated in conference between Senate and House, which already has passed the relief bill in form desired by the administration. Proponents of the amendment expressed doubt, however, that the leaders' optimism was well-founded.

Faces Other Hurdles

Among the other hurdles the Senate leaders face are the inflation amendments of Senator Thomas (D. Okla.) and Wheeler (D. Mont.), the bonus rider by Senator Bulow (D. S. D.), the proposal by Senator Adams (D. Colo.) to slash $2,000,000,000 from the bill, the amendment of Senator La Follette (Prog. Wis.) to increase it to $10,000,000,000, the one-year limitation to be proposed by Republicans, and the effort of Senator Metcalf (R. R. I.) to give preference to veterans in employment of relief officials and administrators.

Not for many a day had the Senate listened to such stirring words as those that preceded yesterday's vote on the proposal of Senator McCarran (D. Nev.).

Credit Endangered

Glass warned that the wage earners would be first to suffer if the nation's credit were damaged. "The President is opposed to the amendment," he said, "because like many thoughtful citizens he has begun to consider how much further we may go in public expenditures before wrecking the credit of the nation."

In the latter sent to Glass and read to the Senate just before the roll call, the President said:

I object to and deny any assertion that the payment of wages to workers now on relief rolls at less than the prevailing rate of wages may, under some theory, result in a lowering or wages paid by private employers.

Recognizes Opinion

I say this because it is an obvious fact—that the Federal government and every state government will act to prevent reductions and secondarily, because public opinion throughout the country will not sustain reductions.

The President said the entire

GIANT 17 TODAY

Alton, Ill., Feb. 22.—(AP)—Robert Wadlow, Alton's boy giant who may some day be the tallest man in history, was 17 years old today.

Robert, 8 feet 1 1/2 inches tall, added three inches to his height during the past year. He weighs about 365 pounds. Physicians are of the opinion he may reach a height of more than nine feet, dwarfing the Irish giant Byrnes, 8 feet 9 inches, who is believed to be the tallest man on record.

The Alton high school senior regarded his birthday as unimportant. He was more pleased that the school holiday in observance of Washington's birthday had given him additional time "to bone up on German."

He will graduate in June and plans to enter Shurtleff college, where he will take a law course.

UNOPENED NOTES MAY TELL STORY OF GIRLS' GRIEF

Eye Witness of Death Leap of Du Bois Sisters Tells Story

London, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Two farewell notes, their contents undivulged held the death secret of Jane and Elizabeth DuBois today.

Coert Du Bois, United States Consul General at Naples, father of the attractive young women who plunged to their deaths yesterday from an airplane, was enroute here with his wife to receive the girls' daughters' messages.

The two notes, found on a seat of the airliner after the sisters had leaped from it at an altitude of 3,000 feet over Uppminster, Essex, were in the custody of the American Consul here. He declined to divulge the contents to anyone except the parents.

Meanwhile, a witness of the sisters' horrifying death leap disclosed further details of the strange dual suicide. The source of the information was Frank Solomon, who was standing in a cabbage patch at Uppminster, when the two human plummets hurtled from the sky and struck the ground near him.

"I was standing drinking my tea," he said, "when something flashed past my eye and I heard a violent thump. I looked around and saw what appeared to be two girls lying asleep, faces down-ward."

"They lay side by side, hands clasped, and looked just as if they were taking a rest. The force of their fall had driven them eight inches into the ground, but there was no blood."

The notes addressed to Mr. and Mrs. Du Bois, which Jane and Elizabeth left behind, were reported to have explained that they wished to die because two young Royal Air Force aviators, in whom they were interested, perished in an air disaster at Messina, Sicily, last week.

The young women were said to have been "informally engaged" to the two fliers, Flight Lieutenant Henry Longfield Beatty and Flying Officer John A. C. Forbes.

Envelopes Unopened.

Dr. S. Blakeley of Bedfordshire said his daughter Kathleen was engaged to Forbes and that their marriage was to have taken place after the aviator's return from Singapore in April. Mrs. Harold Lett, mother of Beatty, said in Dublin that her son had written of his ac-

Auto Breaks Loose from Tow: Crashes into Brady's Store

A used automobile which was being towed behind another car broke its mooring this morning on the Franklin hill on the Lincoln Highway in the east end of the city, crossed over the small parkway, struck highway route 2, barely missed a pole and came to a halt when it craved in the side of the Brady confectionery store. The car crashed into the building with such force that almost the entire front part was driven into the structure. The car was only slightly damaged.

An employee of the Chaikin Auto Co. of Omaha, Neb., was driving one car and towing another. As they started down the grade coming into Dixon, the second car broke loose and started on a course of its own selection. Police were called to the scene of the crash, but a satisfactory arrangement between the parties was made and no action taken by the officers.

Bills Introduced in Congress for Payment of "Repudiated Promises", Echo of Supreme Court's Decision

Washington, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Gold became a definite issue in Congress today with the introduction of bills by two Republicans—Senator Barbour of New Jersey and Representative Hollister of Ohio. They call for payment of the yellow metal on government obligations which have gold clauses.

"I believe," Barbour said yesterday, "that in spite of the recent decision of the Supreme Court, we should not lose sight of the fact that the government of the United States has made a solemn promise or contract, which it later repudiated."

Some Republicans said privately they found a note of "new liberalism" in Herbert Hoover's statement advocating a return to the gold standard. They noted that the former chief executive did not advocate a return to the old gold dollar nor to a free and easy circulation of the metal. He proposed making the present 50-cent dollar payable in gold bullion.

Senator Hastings (R. Del.) was among the Republicans who agreed publicly with Hoover while some others, including Senators Nye and Norris thought differently.

SKINNER TRIAL SET FOR APRIL TERM OF COURT

Judge Manus Refused to Quash Indictments During Morning

Judge Albert H. Manus of Freeport in the Lee county circuit court this morning overruled motions, filed by Attorneys Clyde Smith and Harold Nimz, appointed by the court to represent Charles Skinner of Amboy, to quash the indictments returned by the January grand jury when they were recalled at the request of State's Attorney Edward Jones. Skinner stands charged with the murder of Miss Olive Derwent and with assault with intent to commit murder upon John Scott, companion of the young woman, on the evening of January 25 in the yard in front of her home in Amboy.

Skinner was brought into court this morning handcuffed to officers at the hearings on the motion to quash both indictments. They were made by his attorneys. He is very deaf and it was necessary for his attorney Harold Nimz to shout the admonitions of the court. Judge Manus explained his constitutional rights, stating that for conviction of the murder charge, the penalty is either death or imprisonment in the penitentiary for a period of from 14 years to life. Skinner pleaded not guilty. The charge contained in the indictment and approved the appointment by the court of Attorneys Smith and Nimz.

Continuance Granted

The defense attorneys then filed a motion for the continuance of the trial of both cases until the April term, which was granted by the court.

On the second indictment charging Skinner with assaulting Scott, with intent to commit murder, Attorney Nimz again shouted the courts explanation to his client. Judge Manus stated that in the event of a plea of guilty or a verdict of guilt, the sentence would be an indeterminate one.

During his brief presence in the court room, Skinner expressed to a deputy that he was quite nervous, and at the conclusion of the hearing.

Illinois Merchants Must Pay Sales Tax on Direct Shipments

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 22.—(AP)—The state finance department today ruled that Illinois merchants must pay the two per cent sales tax on merchandise shipped from outside the state to consumers within the state.

The action was taken as a result of a recent decision of the United States supreme court in a suit brought against Pennsylvania, holding that the tax may be levied against a firm doing business in the state even though the merchandise sold is in another state at the time of the contract and is shipped directly to the purchaser.

Finance department officials said the new ruling would help eliminate unfair competition among merchants, since some retailers have been able to obtain goods outside Illinois and ship directly to the consumers without paying the tax.

Reports Sextuplets
Born to Negro Woman

New Orleans, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Now it's sextuplets.

Dr. Edward Schumann, of the medical faculty of the University of Pennsylvania, said he had been informed of the birth of six children to a Negro woman on the African gold coast.

Speaking at a medical meeting last night, Dr. Schumann exhibited a picture of the asserted sextuplets which he said was sent to him by a medical missionary.

He said he was informed by what he considered a reliable authority that the infants were eight days old and still living when the picture was taken.

Days of Blue Eagle
Believed Numbered

Washington, Feb. 22.—(AP)—The blue eagle's days may be numbered. It was indicated today NRA officials say they are not concerned whether the bird is retained as a symbol in the new code agreements.

Some of them expressed the belief the eagle had lost much of its significance. The 1934 code eagles were extended some time ago to cover 1935. What will be done when a new NRA act is passed, the officials said, remained to be seen.

YOUNG CLERK IN BANK REJECTED ACCUSED'S PLEA

State Continues Presentation of Conspiracy Case

Chicago, Feb. 22.—(AP)—A second youthful bank clerk took the witness stand today in the grand larceny trial of Dave Barry, boxing referee, and Abraham Karatz, former St. Paul attorney, and charged that the defendants had attempted to use him as a tool in obtaining money from the Amalgamated Trust & Savings bank.

Like Otto Van Derck, who admitted covering up overdrafts on the account of Barry's enterprises, 22-year-old Arthur Fortier said he had been lured by big names and the prospects of big money. Unlike Van Derck, however, he said he did not succumb to the temptation.

Fortier, who said his salary at the bank was $65 a month, told he had added to his income last summer by "shilling" for a Barry concession at the World's Fair last summer. "Shilling," he said, consisted of pretending to buy tickets in order to set an example to the crowd.

Karatz, he said, had asked him how he would like a $5,000 a year job as assistant treasurer of the Abraham Lincoln Life Insurance Company of Springfield, Ill. It was this company, the state charges, that the conspirators planned to take over with money fraudulently obtained from the bank.

Later, he testified, Karatz attempted to obtain his assistance in putting through a $25,000 check on a man named W. W. Ehlers. Fortier said he refused to have any part in the transaction.

Witness in Robbery
Case Killed in Intimidation Attempt

East St. Louis, Ill., Feb. 22.—(AP)—William C. Moss, 67-year-old mortician, was shot to death early today in a gun fight with three men who, police believe, attempted to intimidate him from appearing as a witness in a robbery case.

Before he fell, Moss shot and seriously wounded one of his assailants. The man, who said he was Buren Dedmon, 25, told police the trio was attempting to hold up the mortician.

Police, however, discounted his statement, pointing out Moss is the chief prosecuting witness against two associates of Dedmon who are to be tried week after next on a street car robbery charge.

Walters was arrested when he started to pick up a dummy package left in an alley by Mrs. Tedrick following instructions in an extortion letter.

TO PROBE RATES

With the announcement of an I. C. C. order for reduced electric rates in 32 cities, and villages supplies by the Central Illinois Public Service company amounting to approximately $200,000, Mayor George A. Campbell will submit to the Dixon city council at the meeting this evening, a proposal for an investigation of rates charged Dixon consumers by the Illinois Northern Utilities company.

Before his appointment as mayor of the city and while serving as commissioner of public accounts, Mayor Campbell repeatedly urged an investigation of the electric service charges in Dixon, with a view of reduction. His proposal met with little encouragement on these occasions but he will propose it this evening.

PUZZLING CASE OF SCHEPP NOW
UP TO ILLINOIS

Los Angeles Officers Throw Up Hands After
Probing Newsboy

Los Angeles, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Los Angeles police threw up their hands today and said it would be up to Illinois authorities to solve the puzzling case of John S. Schnepp, former mayor of Springfield, Ill.

The 73-year-old Schnepp, arrested here in connection with an alleged $32,000 embezzlement in Springfield, was identified first as a "newsboy" who sold papers in downtown Los Angeles, then as the missing former Springfield mayor, sought for two years; finally as "John L. Shepherd," who maintained a home and family in California in 1930, 1931 and the early part of 1932.

Miss Henrietta B. Logan, who said she had served as governess for "Shepherd," both here and in San Diego, yesterday identified Schnepp as her former employer.

"Mr. Shepherd visited his family here about every six weeks," said the governess. "He made no efforts to hide his business connections in Springfield, Ill., and St. Louis, Mo. He was known to be a wealthy attorney, but never as a mayor of a city."

To which Detective Captain Jack Trainor said:

We are not concerned with this feature of the puzzling case. We are convinced the identification made by Miss Logan is correct, but it serves only to complete our work on his being wanted as a fugitive in Illinois."

Illinois authorities, Trainor added, can unravel the odd circumstances in Schnepp's past life.

Helped Pay For Answer

Replying that the speech had been "improperly printed" by Farley, through the Democratic national committee, Long said he had been a contributor to the party and the Postmaster General therefore was proposing "to use my money to answer me." Reading from the speech he said Farley contended that attacks on him really were attacks on President Roosevelt.

Farley Just Smiled

Chicago, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Postmaster General Farley, in Chicago for a busy hour en route to Peoria, Ill., for a talk tonight, professed to be amused by Senator Huey Long's attack on him on the senate floor yesterday.

"I smiled when I read it," the Postmaster General asserted. Farley sprinted from his car to a taxicab upon his arrival from New York at 8:20 A. M., breaking stride momentarily to permit photographers congregated at the Union Station to get a few hurried shots.

"Make it snappy, fellows," he appealed. "I've got to leave for Peoria at 9:20 and I'm on my way to get a shave."

He ran a hand over his chin to indicate his plight.

A reception committee of Peoria citizens dog trotted at Farley's side to the waiting taxicab. Included were F. A. Stowe, editor of the Peoria Journal-Transcript; A. R. Salzenstein, president of the Civic Council club, where Farley will speak, and Hiram Todd.

Approval of Two PWA Projects in Dixon, One Each in Rochelle and Amboy Rescinded by Washington

Approval of two important Public Works Administration projects in Dixon has been rescinded by the government. It became known yesterday together with other projects in Amboy and Rochelle. Those named in Dixon were the plans for resurfacing the streets in the downtown business district and the construction of a new and modern ornamental street lighting system, which were among several projects proposed under the administration of former mayor George C. Dixon.

Mayor George Campbell and City Attorney Martin Gannon indicated today, with the announcement of the rescinding of the proposals, that new applications may be filed soon, both projects having been included in the city's application for federal relief filed last week. The two projects, which have been rescinded at Washington, would represent federal loans to Dixon amounting to $40,000. Legal difficulties over specifications and the method of spreading the specified assessments over the retirement of bonds, caused the delay in having both projects finally approved at Washington, it was stated.

Amboy's project providing for a federal grant under the PWA program for the improvement of the city water system amounting to $30,000 later increased to $32,000 due to the increased cost of materials, was submitted 18 months ago.

HUEY SAYS POST- MASTER GENERAL "IS ON WAY OUT"

Calls Farley "Common, Ordinary, Unscrupulous Crook" Today

Washington, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Huey Long, warming up for a new onslaught on Postmaster General Farley, warns the Capital it is "going to be rocked."

A "common, ordinary, unscrupulous crook with no defense whatever to be made for him" was the description Senator Long applied to Farley on the senate floor yesterday as he continued his efforts to obtain an investigation of Farley's administration.

"What I have to show in the next few days will rock this capital," he said, adding that the Postmaster General is "on the way out."

Long said his charges would involve bank law violations and Ten-pence in which he contended Farley had interfered. Senator McKellar (D-Tenn.) interrupted to say he believed he knew what the Louisiana had in mind but that he was "wholly misinformed."

Contract Cancelled

As Long spoke, Harry L. Hopkins, the relief administrator, told newsmen that the FERA had cancelled a contract with a New York company for $4,000 sacks of cement and given 20,000 sacks of the order to the General Builders Supply Company, of which, Long says, Farley formerly was president. Hopkins said the original contract with the City Builders Company, calling for $47,880 had to be cancelled because NRA certified the company was not complying with its code. He said that the price finally paid five companies for the cement was $32,864.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, challenged Long's reading of a speech he said Farley planned to deliver tonight. Robinson declared it was unfair to obtain a copy of a speech given out to the press in advance and that "a question of fair dealing" was involved.

Helped Pay For Answer

Replying that the speech had been "improperly printed" by Farley, through the Democratic national committee, Long said he had been a contributor to the party and the Postmaster General therefore was proposing "to use my money to answer me." Reading from the speech he said Farley contended that attacks on him really were attacks on President Roosevelt.

Before the jury reported the verdict, black-haired defendant joked and laughed with his jail mates several of whom have previously served sentences imposed by his father.

Kenamer accepted the verdict without a show of emotion. He seemed over to pat the shoulder of his father who sat slumped in the next chair.

Prosecutor Satisfied

J. Holly Anderson, prosecutor of Tulsa county from where the trial was brought on a change of venue, said he was "satisfied," and intimated he would demand a long prison term for Kenamer.

Miss Virginia Wilcox, pretty 19-year-old oil heiress, the girl Kenamer said he was trying to protect when he shot Gorrell, was not in the courtroom although she had attended nearly all the sessions of the trial and had appeared as a defense witness.

Gorrell, 23-year-old son of a prominent Tulsa physician, was found dead with two bullet holes in his head in an exclusive Tulsa residential section. Two days later Kenamer surrendered, saying he had shot in self-defense to prevent Gorrell from carrying out an alleged $20,000 kidnaping plot against the family of H. F. Wilcox, millionaire oil man.

Hauptmann Jurors
Show Good Sense:
Reject Stage Tour

New York, Feb. 22.—(AP)—The Hauptmann jurors have "returned to their normal way of living" after having declined large salaries for a vaudeville tour.

Samuel Burger, theatrical promoter, has disclosed the ten members of the jury met in Fleming, N. J., to decide whether or not to accept his offer of a ten weeks' contract to appear in theatres and auditoriums throughout the country.

Charles Walton, Sr., jury foreman, presided.

Walton told me that they decided to return to their normal way of living," Burger said. "I was going to pay Walton $300 a week and each of the others $200. "The tour called for ten weeks work and they might have made a good bit of money out of it."

DIED BEWILDERED

Kansas City, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Calvin Coolidge, in the opinion of his latest biographer, died a bewildered man—puzzled and distracted by the trend of American life and thinking during the last days of his life.

Dr. Claude M. Fuess, Head Master of Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass., presented this view of the Republican president on a visit here today.

The educator, who is the author of four other biographies, is preparing the work on Coolidge with the aid of Mrs. Coolidge.

"Coolidge once remarked to a friend, 'I do not fit with these times.' Dr. Fuess said, 'From my study of his life I see how he couldn't understand the excessive spending, the wild speculation and the move toward bureaucracy and state socialism.' His whole philosophy was that of thrift and individualism."

OLD NEWSPAPER
SHOWS WASH-INGTON ADVERTISEDFather of Country Offered Inducements to Settle on His Land

Wheeling, W. Va., Feb. 22—(AP)—
As a dealer in real estate, George Washington knew how to advertise, a paper in the possession of J. B. Baum shows.

Baum has a copy of the Maryland Journal & Baltimore Advertiser of August 20, 1773, in which the father of his country offered considerable inducement to persons who would settle on his lands along the Ohio and Great Kanawha rivers.

The "ad" dated from Mt. Vernon, makes this offer:

"The subscriber having obtained patents for upwards of 20,000 acres of land on the Ohio and Great Kanawha, proposes to divide the same into any sized tenements that may be desired and lease them upon moderate terms, allowing a number of years rent free, provided, within the space of two years from next October, three acres of every 50 contained in each place, and proportionately for a lesser quantity, shall be cleared, fenced and tilled;
five acres laid down in good grass for meadow, and moreover, that at least 50 good fruit trees for every like quantity of land shall be planted on the premises."

the death in Milwaukee, Wis., on Wednesday of Oliver Kinney, 17-ceased lived on the Harrington farm east of the city. The Kinney family moved to Milwaukee about six years ago.

POST FORCED TO LAND ON 'BELLY-
SKID' OF PLANEAttempted Sub-Stratosphere Flight Ends
in Mojave Desert

Los Angeles, Feb. 22—(AP)— Wiley Post, intrepid flier who started a sub-stratosphere dash from Los Angeles to New York early today, was forced down without material damage to his plane at Muroc dry lake, 125 miles northeast of here, he advised the Lockheed Corporation.

"Forced down at Muroc lake; no damage to plane except bent propeller blade," Post advised the aircraft corporation here. "You can land alongside me with ease."

Officials said they were sending two ships with mechanics to enable the plane to be returned here.
In Mojave Desert
Muroc is in the Mojave desert. It is a salt lake, now dry, and the immediate territory where Post landed is excessively arid with the soil hard packed. Various automobile racers have used the region for test splins.

Post advised the Lockheed Corporation of his mishap by telegram, and further particulars were not immediately available. The flier, preparing for his high altitude non-stop dash for several weeks, only a few days ago expressed dissatisfaction with the propeller of his Winnie Mae and a new one was sent him by airmail.

Post dropped the landing gear of his plane at the takeoff at 6:07 A.
M. (PCT) so he had to make his forced descent into the desert on a wooden "belly skid" making a dead stick landing.

Democrats in Wild
Scramble to Get 10
Thousand New Jobs

Washington, Feb. 22—(AP)— House Democrats scrambled today to see who could be first in line for the right to recommend workers for 10,000 new jobs in the Civilian Conservation Corps.

Information that that many jobs would be available was the biggest tangible gain they made at their forced party caucus yesterday on the question of patronage.

Their special patronage committee which twice called on President Roosevelt, reported the President had promised to give greater breed to house members' recommendations. That, however, did not satisfy the patronage seekers fully.
Then Speaker Byrns remarked that under the president's plans to increase the CCC from its present 300,000 to 600,000, it would be necessary to select about 10,000 new employees.

Jobless Miners 'Cave Dwellers'; Plight Stirs Protest

Back to the cave dwellers of the dawn of history have gone some 500 of the jobless miners and steel workers of Fayette county, Pa. At top, dug into the hillside at Champion, near Brownsville, Pa., is a row of abandoned coke ovens in which many jobless have been living. Below are three jobless miners before their "cave dwellings" at Dunbar, near Connellsville, Pa. A delegation went to Wash- ington recently protesting these conditions, claiming that hundreds of houses owned by coal com- panies that have shut down are vacant.

HEAR FAREWELL ADDRESS

Washington, Feb. 22—(AP)—
Leading the nation in paying tribute to George Washington, President Roosevelt arranged today to hear the farewell address of the late George Washington, who died in 1799.

Roosevelt remained away from his desk and held no business conferences. The only caller was E.
Gordon Bill, a dean of Dartmouth College, a personal friend.

The senate and house turned the clock back 139 years to listen to Washington's farewell address, as though this were 1796 and they were hearing the message for the first time.

In assembling on Washington's birthday to hear again the famous address of the father of his country, congress followed one of its oldest traditions.

Senator Austin (R. Va.) was chosen to read the 6,000 word message before the senate. Speaker Byrns waited until the last minute to choose a representative to read it.

The farewell address, directed to the people—"My Friends and Fellow Citizens"—was made public on Sept. 17, 1796.

The usually ultra-formal observance ended in a near bedlam in the house today when Representative Rich (A. Pa.) told the Democrats they ought to follow the principles laid down in that historic paper.

Referring to a newspaper article (not carried by The Associated Press) that 10,000 Civilian Conservation Corps jobs "would be distributed among deserving" members of the party, Rich declared:

"I don't want men from Alabama, Texas and so on coming up to Pennsylvania and taking jobs that ought to go to Pennsylvanians."

The Democrats, who had turned out in force for a roll call before the reading of the address by Representative Driscoll (D. Pa.), responded with loud "No's" and boos at this reference to their patronage caucus deliberations late yesterday.

A object, shouted Representative Rich of New York, "to using the address of George Washington in this way."

Most of Rich's other remarks were drowned out in the confusion which only ended when the gavel

well notes, both the American conthey said, until the coroner's in-

New Disclosure.
A new angle to the death leap came to light with the disclosure of the woman manager of an apartment house where the sisters lived last spring that the sister she knew as Jane Du Bois had told her she was married.

"The girl I knew as Jane," the woman told police investigators, said she was married and gave me a married name, but I have forgotten it. She wore a gold wedding ring. They asked me to call them both Miss Du Bois, however.

The apartment house manager described the sisters as happy and full of life.

GEORGE WASHINGTON—
SANE BALANCE WHEEL

Back in George Washington's day the words left and right had no political connotations. If you were a conservative they called you a Tory, and if you were very conservative you were an out-and-out monarchist; if you were radical you were a democrat, and if you were downright Bolshevik they called you a Jacobin.

But whatever the words were, Washington had the same sort of problem that any leader must face in time of social upheaval—the job of steering a fair course between the extremes demanded by different groups of his fellows.

He was unquestionably a conservative at heart. He was a landed country gentleman—probably the richest man in America, by all accounts—and he was an aristocrat by birth and training.

Yet he was a rebel, too. To revolt against the king was no light thing, in those days. If the revolution had failed, Washington would unquestionably have been hanged, drawn and quartered in the tower of London, and he knew it as well as anyone. The man who led the colonial army in 1776 must have had a good streak of the radical in him somewhere.

In his own character he balanced the radical and conservative elements perfectly; and we add 'first in peace' to that familiar tag, because he did the same thing as president.

That was no easy thing for him to do, any more than it is an easy thing to do today. On the one side were powerful influences which wanted the new nation contaminated as little as possible by this pernicious democracy business—some of them, indeed, wanted a new monarchy over here. On the other side were the ultra-radicals, who wanted their democracy made as absolute as possible.

Washington listened to both sides—and made both sides work together for the country. He teamed Hamilton and Jefferson together. In his cabinet, which would be something like grouping Ogden Mills and Norman Thomas today. He steered a way straight down the middle.

Hamilton got much that he wanted, and so did Jefferson. What the country got was a solid beginning on which it was able to continue the great experiment in self-government for many generations.

The middle course is never very popular or spectacular. But it served the country very well indeed, as Washington applied it. Might not the same course apply today?

WITHIN SOCIETY'S WALLS

There died in Painesville, O., the other day a woman named Mary Cole. She was 81 years old, and she had spent almost her entire life in public institutions.

When she was a year old, Mary Cole was brought to the county home by her mother, who had encountered some misfortune or other which prevented her from caring for her child. Then the mother went away—disappeared, died, heavens knows just what. Anyway, Mary Cole was left for the state to rear.

The state did its job. Mary Cole grew up in an orphanage and spent her womanhood in the county home.
Even the earliest moment she could remember, she was a pensioner.

She lived longer than most people, but she never once lived in her own home with her own people, never knew a moment of independence, never got even a glimpse of the life ordinary folk enjoy.

A strange and tragic commentary on modern society—
this long and pathetically wasted life!

TO BE CONGRATULATED

Young Mrs. James H. R. Crowell, who was famous as Doris Duke, "richest girl in the world," until her marriage a few days ago, seems to deserve some kind of vote of thanks from her fellow countrymen.

Here, for a change, was a young woman of wealth and position who got married in a quiet, unpress-agented manner; an American heiress who actually found it possible to take unto herself a husband without the aid of an army of cameramen, newsreel truck, graping, spectators, and the like.

Furthermore, the young woman married an American, and not a fortune-hunting member of some obscure European titled house.

All this, on the principle of when-the-man-bites-the-dog-it's-news, is worthy of notice. And since it's such a pleasant change, Mrs. Crowell deserves some kind of thanks.

I think Detroit will win the pennant again, with Cleveland the strongest opposition and New York and Boston fighting for third place.—Goose Goslin, star Detroit outfielder.

The newer psychology has helped us to understand the men of the past as it has helped us to understand our contemporaries.—Stefan Zweig, European novelist.

The scales of justice are not balanced for the people, but for the criminal.—Police Commissioner Lewis J.
Valentine of New York.

TEACHERS HAD
PAY REDUCED
IN LEE COUNTY

Statistics Show A 23.43
Per Cent Decrease
in Pay

The current issue of the Educational Press Bulletin from the office of the state superintendent of public instruction at Springfield, contains interesting figures comparing the average annual salaries of teachers in Illinois in 1929 and in 1934. A table divides the counties of the state and in Lee County salaries of instructors including superintendents and principals has decreased 23.43 from 1929 to 1934.
For all counties of the state the decrease amounted to 21.73.

The average salary paid to men creased to ten.

No teachers were paid a salary of Wee Duncy was so startled he

"Gee! Why did that strange boot kick me, when I haven't done a thing?"
"Is this a joke somebody's played? Down in the stream it should have stayed." "Ha, ha," laughed little Goidy. "That sure was a very healthy swing!"
"I think I know just why you got that swift kick, lad. As like as not, it was because you ridiculed the boot when Doty pulled it out."
"So, after all, it served you right. You'd best keep both your lips shut tight and just forget the kicking. It will do no good to just pout."
The old farmer said, "Now, lots. I think that I can tell you lots and lots about that strange old boot. It was lost some years ago."
"A giant wore it around the land and one day it slipped from his hand and splashed into the little stream, to sink far, far below."

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

AS OTHERS SEE IT.

Editor Telegraph—The most gratifying outcome of this political contest thus far to me is the several letters from fine business and professional men encouraging me and endorsing my stand taken in the People's Column of Feb. 15th, and stating they were going to work for my interests, as that was the interest to every other good citizen.

Those who point the finger of scorn at the last four years of self-promotion and political horse play, will say there have been too many political-minded in one group and not enough independent action in the business affairs of the city. The restraint you mentioned has cast reflections on departments who are worth more to your interest and protection and mine than any elective official that has served above them. This is not a defense because they can and must stand upon their own feet. Remove the restraint and they will function as well as ever. I believe in "holding fast unto that which is good." We have always had

Mussolini Reviews Troops on Eve of African Crisis

Like an omen of impending events seems this picture just arrived in America from Italy. It shows Premier-Dictator Benito Mussolini (rightmost figure on horseback), reviewing thousands of members of the Volunteer Militia in Rome on the twelfth anniversary of their organization. A few days later he called out 250,000 troops when the Abyssinian border troubles became serious.

worthwhile things in Dixon and always will have.

We cannot borrow ourselves rich. We cannot bring back prosperity by spending; the government has failed in that.

Prosperity must come through economy in government and private action.

We must pay as we go. My position in this campaign is that of an independent and private citizen, backed by no parties or interests; will be obligated to no person or group. Like one of the ancient maxims, "I come with clean hands."

To the Telegraph for the generous use of these columns I am grateful. To the citizens of Dixon, if you select me to represent you, I will give my best efforts in cooperation with the balance of the council you select in serving the best interests of city government. Respectfully, Wm. J. Byerhoff.

FROM GEO. CAMPBELL

To the Voters of the City of Dixon—You all know that I am a candidate for the office of Mayor and just wish to make a short statement to the voters of the City of Dixon. I have been elected Commissioner of the City of Dixon for four terms or sixteen consecutive years and have served under several departments and I have always tried to fill these offices in keeping with the views of the voters, always trying to do what I thought was the best for the public and the tax payers of this community.

In conducting this campaign for Mayor I am following the principle that I have always labored under, that the public and voters of the city of Dixon have known me for a number of years and I feel that you will use your best judgment in selecting your candidate for public office without my making a personal call.

My position in regard to public policies is that I am heartily in favor of any public improvement that the public may desire and I am in favor of the purchasing of any public utility which the public may wish, but until such request is made by the public I think perhaps it would be a good policy to defer an action on public matters until future conditions are such that they warrant same.

In regard to financial conditions of the city of Dixon I wish to say that you all realize that the depression that now exists and have existed for some time past has had

Miss Miley Will Enter Floridian Golf Tournament

Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 22.—(AP)—To Miss Marion Miley of Lexington, Ky., or to Mrs. Philip Hill of London, England, goes the Florida women's golf championship today.

First class golf and the breaks of another annual winter tournament placed them in the final match for the undefended title. Maureen Orcutt won last year.

Miss Miley, Kentucky women's champion, advanced over Grace Armory of Deepdale, L. I. 4 and 2. Mrs. Hill sank a long putt on the 18th hole yesterday to win one up over Mrs. Leon Solomon of Memphis, Tennessee titleholder.

Lee Center Conquers Dixon State Hospital Basketball Team, 41-26

Both Quints Clown On Slippery Gym Floor

In a wild contest replete with freak passing, and much skidding, Lee Center registered its second basketball victory over the Dixon State Hospital Yellowjackets 41 to 26 Thursday night on the institution's floor.

Lee Center scored first on a field goal by T. Mortenson who flipped in one from under the hoop. A second later Windmiller gave the Staters a 2-2 tie with an equally quick follow-in shot. The Yellowjackets took a 4 to 2 lead a moment later, the only time in the entire tilt they held the upper hand. Baskets by Ullrich and A. Mortenson soon wiped this margin away and the invaders proceeded to run up a sizeable lead that was never again seriously threatened. The Centuries 11 to 6 count was increased to 23-10 at half time and in the third quarter the Blacks left the floor in favor of an array of substitutes who continued to hold the Yellowjackets on even terms until the fourth period.

Windy Windmiller's eighteen points indicated he was the key to the Yellowjackets' only offensive punch. He connected with eight goals mostly follow-up shots and a pair of charity tosses. The only other hospital men to score were Fitzpatrick, forward, who totaled two buckets, for four points, and Phelps with an equal amount.

"Charlie Chase" Kesselring was given five tries by the free lane in the second half that might have boosted his team into the thirties, but he held true to form by missing them all. The only quarter in which the Yellowjackets, riddled by sickness, held their opposition on even terms, was in the third frame. Each quint marked up eight unofficial goals.

As usual the slippery Hospital floor prevented anything resembling good basketball. It continued to promote congeniality however. The boys all enjoyed themselves immensely and after the regularly scheduled tussle, divided up for an other half hour of merriment in an unofficial game.

MARCUM AWAITS SALARY OFFER IN KENTUCKY

Planned To Be At Fort Myers on February 10

Eminence, Ky., Feb. 22.—(AP)—Because he wants a "modest increase" in the salary manager Connie Mack offered, and because he has bought a farm, Johnny Marcum, husky right handed pitcher for the Philadelphia Athletics was here today rather than at the A's spring training camp at Fort Myers, Fla.

Marcum said he had planned to be at Fort Myers Feb. 10, but delayed because he bought a farm "and we are moving on it." He admitted wishing he was there, but said he probably would wait "until I hear from my letter to Mr. Mack." Johnny addressed the letter to Philadelphia.

About his reported excess pounds, Marcum said: "I'm not so very much overweight. I'm not eager to take off some pounds before the season starts and get in condition early. I started slowly last year. I want to get away at top speed this season and keep on going."

These three, along with Time Supply, Head Play, Gusto and Azucar, were given more than an outside chance by walking off with the handsome purse. Head Play has been brought along cleverly after a dismal start last Christmas Day. Time Supply proved himself a good money horse by winning $50,000 in the Narragansett Special and the Bay Meadows Handicap.

Azucar, a former steeplechaser, has won several important events here this winter. Showing both speed and durability, Gusto is the unknown quantity. Three year old champion of 1932 the L. M. Schwartz horse has been seen in action here only once.

Goodman Listed
To Compete in

Omaha, Neb., Feb. 22.—(AP)—Johnny Goodman, former national open golf champion, will leave tonight for New Orleans where he will compete in an amateur match play tournament, Feb. 27, to March 3, inclusive.

One Year Ago Today — Walter Savell, Yale swimmer, set a new American record for the 100-meter breast stroke at New Haven. His time was 1:13 2-5.

Five Years Ago Today — Horton Smith finished first, one stroke ahead of Bobby Jones, in the first annual Savannah Open. His card for 72 holes was 278.

Ten Years Ago Today — Martha Norrhus broke the women's world 880-yard free style swimming record in New York. The Olympic star was clocked in 12:32 2-5.

Redbirds Meet First Reverse; Patients' Loop

The Redbirds of the Dixon State Hospital Patients' basketball league met their first reverse of the season at the hands of the Wildcats by a 35-30 score in last week's competition of the State Hospital court.

This week the pairings list the Tigers versus the Eagles, the Bears against the Redbirds and the Wildcats versus the Ramblers.

Following are the standings:

Redbirds	W. L.
Wildcats	11 1
Ramblers	8 4
Eagles	4 8
Bears	3 9
Tigers	1 11

POLE HORSE'S POSITION MAY DECIDE RACE

Santa Anita Race May Be Decided By the Draw

Los Angeles, Feb. 22.—(AP)—The move that may decide the winner of the Santa Anita's handicap and disposition of the $100,000 added money will be made today.

For with a top-heavy field of at least 20 entries expected the luck of the draw for post positions may develop to be the difference between victory and defeat.

An outside position would fit nicely into the scheme of things for Equipoise, who promises to go to the gate tomorrow afternoon on odds on favorite to win the event and become the leading cash collector of all time.

For some of the more fleet of the blue-blooded field, the rail spot would not be bad, and in any event, the jockey who can keep his charge from trouble by trailing at the start or setting the pace, has the best chance of riding under the wire in front.

Swing Toward Ladysman
There was a definite swing today toward Ladysman and Twenty Grand as the outstanding threats to keep Equipoise from thundering home in front to pass Sun Beau's mark of $376,744 in turf earnings.

This was built on a firm foundation of startling final workouts yesterday when they rambled the handicap route of a mile and a quarter in 2:05 4-5 and 2:04 4-5 respectively.

But regardless of all this there was the indisputable record of Ekky—only seven races out of the money in 50 starts including three disqualifications. Nothing in the prepping performance of C. V. Whitney's 7-year old chestnut here has served to prove that he is unsound or has lost any of the finishing drive which usually put him on top.

Of course the high impost of 130 pounds may drag him down in a race where there are plenty of high class thoroughbreds carrying much less. And there was that rough habit of getting himself in trouble by crowding the rail.

Certainly he will be wisely handled by Raymond "Sonny" Workman, who piloted him to most of his important triumphs. Ladysman, W. R. Coe's 5-year old of Pompey showed speed here by winning his only start, a sprint race. He defeated Equipoise in the Suburban last year.

Equipoise quite definitely proved last Monday that he can beat Twenty Grand when he overtook Mrs. Payne Whitney's veteran in the stretch and then lost on disqualification.

Ekky Not Only Horse
Ekky will not be the only horse in the race with a chance to pass Sun Beau's mark. Mate, an old rival of both Equipoise and Twenty Grand could take the honor by winning first place money of somewhat better than $100,000.

These three, along with Time Supply, Head Play, Gusto and Azucar, were given more than an outside chance by walking off with the handsome purse. Head Play has been brought along cleverly after a dismal start last Christmas Day. Time Supply proved himself a good money horse by winning $50,000 in the Narragansett Special and the Bay Meadows Handicap.

BY ROBBIN
Coach L. E. Sharpe and his squads of purple and white cagers met Belvidere tonight in the Dixon high gym in two North Central Conference games. Pony contests will start at approximately 7:15.

If the Junior Sharpshooters entered on top in this game, they will clinch the title for the lighter division of the N. C. I. C. If they drop this game and next weeks encounter with Mendota, there might possibly be a deadlock with DeKalb, providing that DeKalb wins her last two games.

If this game is won, the Dixon lights will have undisputed honor of holding first place even if they lose to Mendota. Dixon Majors can do no better than increase their hold on third place. DeKalb plays at Sterling tonight and if the Barbs win, the major title is practically as good as in their lap; if they lose, Sterling and DeKalb will again be in a tie for first place. Rochelle and Mendota will engage in two conference games at the city.

Dixon Hits Stride
The Sharpshooters have finally hit their stride and will endeavor to keep their record clean throughout the remainder of this season and the district tournament which is to be held here during the first part of March. With the forwards alternating between Underwood, Flanagan and Evans, Reback in the pivot, and Durkes and Fane in the defensive positions, this lineup of six cagers will be the ones that meet any cage foe of Dixon high for the remainder of this season.

Last month the Sharpshooters won two games in the Belvidere gym, the majors by a two point margin and the lights by a safe margin. Tonight, Belvidere is out seeking revenge for that game which they considered was in the bag. Their big six-foot center, Art Keister, and diminutive forward "Porky" Schrader, will undoubtedly figure most prominently in the Boone county's scoring power.

Commercial league basketball teams will play Monday night, February 23, instead of their customary Tuesday evening. Joe Miller announced this morning.

The Dixon State Hospital team and the I. N. U. quint will open the contests at 7:15 p. m. followed at 8:15 p. m. by a game between the Ashton Blacks and the league-leading Beiers Loafers.

The Beiers, even with defeat charged against them by Ashton, will retain undisputed possession of first place. They lead the remainder of the field by a game, and tilt nevertheless should be one of the most interesting of the year. Ashton is tied with the Knacks Leaders for second place. The latter will referee the games this week.

he "rode" unmercifully last summer. "Joe and I carried on a duel of repartee and goat-getting, but he's a swell fellow, were friends now and I hope to have a fine year under him."

If Grove and Ferrell turn in pitching anywhere near that of which they are capable, Werber believes, the Red Sox will be strong contenders for the pennant.

"We've got a good team and good hitters," he said. "Coke and Solters should be good in the outfield. You can expect Solters to be up around the ten in hitting, too."

Cobb Was Great
"Cobb was about as great as they come. He was in there fighting all the time, trying to win. And that's the way I feel. I want to be aggressive and willing to take chances."

Last year, Werber recalled, he did just exactly what he told Eddie Collins he would do—hit above .320 and lead in stolen bases. He hit .321.

"I think the reason I did better than in 1933 can be traced to Bucky Harris. He was a great manager, gave his players plenty of leeway and didn't ride us," Werber said.

By a queer quirk, Werber will be playing under and alongside shortstop-manager Joe Cronin—the man

BEGIN HERE TODAY

GALE HENDERSON, pretty and 23, works in a silk mill. She and her 19-year-old brother, PHIL, support their invalid father.

STEVE MEYERS, who also works in the mill, asks Gale to marry him. She promises to give him an answer in five days. Gale goes skating, breaks through the ice and is rescued by BRIAN. MEYERS, who has been there, now dead, built the mill. Brian has come home after two years in Paris to enter the mill. Gale disappears before he can learn her name.

ROBERT THATCHER, daughter of ROBERT THATCHER, general manager of the mill, schemes to captivate Brian.

Gale and Steve quarrel, later make up.

Vicky tells Brian she wants to get acquainted with the mill workers, on the pretense of helping them. He is pleased, agrees to take her to see Gale. Next evening Gale, who is expecting Brian, opens the door and faces Vicky.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXXII

VICKY smiled from beneath the insolently slanting hair. She said, "How do you do. May we come in?"

"Why—why, yes," Gale said. Her eyes once again sought Brian's, questioning, trying to hide the hurt that was in them. "Yes, do come in!"

She stepped back and they entered the house. Brian said, "Gale, this is Vicky Thatcher. Vicky—Gale Henderson. I know you're going to like each other, going to be friends. Vicky's come to ask a favor of you, Gale."

Vicky had turned and was surveying the room. Gale, watching her, suddenly saw it all with this stranger's eyes—the faded carpet, worn thread-bare before the door and in front of the place where her father's big chair stood; the old-fashioned wall paper that should have been replaced long ago.

Suddenly, she remembered herself and said, "Won't you sit down?"

"Thank you," Vicky dropped to the chair that was nearest, sat forward and gathered her coat about her. Gale noticed the gesture, ever so slight and yet completely aloof.

Vicky turned to the young man and said, "Cigarette, Brian?"

He rose and held out the open case. He offered it to Gale, too, but she declined. A moment later he flicked a lighter and held the blue flame to her hair.

Brian said, "Well, better tell Gale what you've come for—"

"The dark eyes with their unbelievably long fringes rose to his. "Please, Brian," Vicky said, "you put everything so much better than I do. You explain it."

Brian sat down, looking completely at ease. He said, "It's like this, Gale. Vicky's got an idea I think a good one. She wants to get acquainted with some of the people who work in the mill. She thought there might be things she could do for them—going to see them when they're sick, visiting with the old people, and telling stories to the children. She wants to be really helpful, you understand. What do you think of it?"

Gale's voice was very low. She said, "It's very kind of Miss Thatcher—"

Brian moved one hand disparagingly. "That's not the idea," he said. "She doesn't want to go at this as though it were charity. It isn't. She's got time on her hands and wants to find a way to use it to help someone else. She's just—well, trying to help out. I think myself it's a fine thing. We came to you because I couldn't think of anyone better to take her around and introduce her. Will you do that?"

Gale hesitated. She had remembered that afternoon in Brian's office when Vicky had opened the door and seen her weeping. Did Vicky remember? Had she recognized her? And what possible construction had she put on the situation? The thought made Gale uncomfortable, just as the sight of Vicky in her furs and her audacious hat, sitting in that shabby room with her knees crossed and swinging one French-heeled foot made her uncomfortable.

But Brian was waiting for her to say something.

"I'll be glad to do anything I can," Gale said. She studied the other girl. Vicky didn't look to Gale like anyone who could be very helpful in the mill village. She couldn't imagine her bathing beside Grandpa Higgins, whose fondness for chewing tobacco was always evidenced by the spots on his shirt. Vicky didn't even look like a person who wanted to be helpful.

Vicky was not looking at her, did not seem to be listening. She said, "Oh, Brian—I must have left my purse in your car!"

"I'll get it," he said, on his feet. "Be back in a moment."

Vicky watched the door close behind him. She lifted her head slightly, smiled a sulky smile. "Brian's sweet, isn't he?" she said.

Vicky nodded. "Everyone thinks so," she agreed. "And so good-looking, too. I don't suppose I should tell you—but I'm going to. It's supposed to be an absolute secret, and you must promise not to tell!"

She hesitated. Gale sat watching her. She didn't know what it was that had happened but suddenly she was afraid to move. She was afraid to breathe. There was something fearful in the air.

The other girl went on. "It's supposed to be a secret," she said again, "but I know you'll keep it for us. Brian and I are going to be married!"

Cold, cruel eyes watched the other girl. "I've even set the date of the wedding," Vicky went on, mercilessly. "That is, it's going to be in June some time. I think June weddings are much the nicest, don't you?"

Gale's lips moved but no words came. She tried again and said, "Oh—oh, yes."

"I don't suppose anyone will really be surprised about it," Vicky went on. "That is, our friends, I mean. There was the faintest perceptible accent on the "Come whenever you want to," Gale told her. "Come any time. That's the sweet of you!" Vicky got to her feet. "Don't you think we'd better be going on now?" she said to Brian.

"If you're ready."

"Then I'll say good night," Vicky pulled her coat together, put out one of her hands and took Gale's. She said, sweetly, "I think you've been awfully nice about everything and I'm sure we're going to be great friends!"

Gale's eyes avoided Brian. She said, "Good night" and heard the door close behind them. For an instant she stood, staring at the chair where Vicky had sat. There was a sound behind her and she turned. Brian stood in the doorway.

He said, "Gale, if I come back can I see you alone?"

"Please—," she said, "I wish you'd go away!"

"But Gale—?"

"Will you please go?" She heard the door close for the second time.
